Dear Mr. Marsh,

Of course I shall be delighted to help your young Frenchman if I can. (Oddly enough, another, whether delightful or not I dont know, has just written to ask me the same question.) T.S. Eliot wrote something in the Nouvelle Revue Francaise under the heading of Le Roman Anglais Contemporain, about three years ago, but I'm not sure of the exact date. E.M. Forster wrote an article in the Criterion, either at the end of 1925 or beginning of 1926 I think; Clive Bell wrote an aricle in the Dial I suppose five years ago; and M. Maurois wrote an introductionto the French TTranslation of Mrs dalloway which came out last spring. ~~There~~ There is also an article by Edwin Muir published in Transition, ( Hogarth Press). This I think writes at some length of Mrs Dalloway. I hope some of these may be helpful; but as far as I remember they are not in agreement.

I'm so glad you liked my papers in the Nation. One of these days we want to appraoch you about a book for the Hogarth Press-- would there be any chance of one? on any subject?

Yours very sincerely

Virginia Woolf.

Dear Mr. Marsh,

I have just got your letter sent on to me here.

Alas – I'm afraid I cant open the Exhibition. Shakily though I am honoured by being asked. I am down here recovering from influenza & forbidden to do anything, even when I get back to London. But it was very good of you to ask me.

I would have voted, but the vote is 4 miles distant.

I hope the show will be a great success

Yours sincerely

Virginia Woolf
